DRAKE FLOUR MILL LOSES MONEY;
HOME BUILDERS APPEARS LOSERS;
BANK PROFITS HIGH, SAYS REPORT

Industrial Commission Makes Report to Secretary of State on Condition of State Industries as of Dec. 31—Bank of North Dakota Declared in Good Shape, though $800,000 Is in Closed

Banks—Home Builders Report Meager—Drake Mill Profits Wiped Out Through Price Fall and No Hedging in Grain Market—Claim Big Mill Would Succeed

The report of the Industrial Commission on the Bank of North Dakota, the Drake Mill, mill and elevator association and the Home Builders association is on file with the Secretary of State today, as required annually by law, and with the senate and the house of representatives.

Based chiefly on the audit of industries made by the Equitable Audit company, the report includes considerable discussion of the Bank of North Dakota and the Drake mill, but very little about the Home Builders Association.

The report is given as complete as to the three industries, and is made as of Dec. 31, 1920. It compares generally with the report of Bishop, Brissman and company on the Bank of North Dakota, which was made as of Dec. 3, presents a complete balance on the Home Builders association but gave few details of the operations of this industry, and contains an elaborate discussion of the Drake mill. Among the features of the report are:

Claim is made of net profit for state industries during year 1920 of $116,427.75.

Loss on Drake mill is placed at $17,068.31.

Deduction of $15,000 is made on account of Home Builders association, as deferred expense.

Bank profits for year placed at $135,998.50.

Loans on sinking funds deposited in Bank of North Dakota aggregate 81 per cent of total.

Loans and overdrafts of state industries totalled $948,359.91.

Total of $793,184.64 tied up in closed banks Dec. 31, including loans and redemptions.

Salaries of bank aggregated $107,397.20 for year 1920.

No options sold for Drake mill between July 13, 1920 and Sept. 18, 1920, to cover wheat and flour on hand and on consignment, resulting in loss in fall of wheat price.

Small size of Drake mill held contributing factor to lack of financial success.

Forty per cent loss on $17,000 worth of sacks sustained in price declines on them.

Claim made that mill paid above market price for wheat.

Administration's Stand.

The administration's stand, as reflected through the audit on Drake mill, that it is difficult to operate small mill at profit but that Grand Forks mill under construction can be made to pay.

Bank of North Dakota solvent, and has far greater amount of liquid assets than average for state banks.

Home Builders' administrative charge was held to be less than five percent.

Bank of North Dakota helped financial situation of state by loaning when federal reserve was calling in loans, through which money became tied up in many banks.

From Critical Viewpoint.

From a critical standpoint, it is held that the report bears out the Bishop, Brissman and company audit so far as it goes, but it does not furnish as much information as to the operation of the state industries as does the other audit, except on the Drake mill.

The Bank of North Dakota has loaned less than $8,000,000 to farmers, has tied up nearly $1,000,000 of public funds in state industries, has tied up 81 percent of the sinking fund of the state, has been operated at a huge expense of over $10,000 a month and has tied up over three-quarters of a million dollars in public funds in closed banks.

The report of the Industrial Commission is incomplete in that it does not show farm loans made, nor the depository banks and amounts, to show whether or not favoritism has been practiced.

Loss on Drake Mill.

The report on the Drake flour mill shows a loss far greater than is actually shown, through administrative expenses, method of crediting assets and liabilities, and through probable losses.

Management of Drake mill woefully deficient in failure to hedge on wheat during two months period, but now is shown to be operating on Minneapolis market.

Failure of Drake mill virtually confessed and dark outlook given for future.

Only meager report made on Home Builders association, indicating lack of records.

This report, it is understood, will be made the basis of the senate's investigation of industries. It was received and filed the house.

House Committee Reports Out Measure Appropriating $395,504,444

CUTS NAVY PERSONNEL

No Reduction, However, in Officers of Either Navy or Marine Service

Washington, Feb. 2.—A half of billion dollars will be required to complete the great naval building program embarked upon in 1916, the house committee estimated today in introducing the appropriation bill for 1922.

Increased costs of material and labor, would increase the total cost to $973,933,000, of which $538,270 has been appropriated.

The bill reported today which carries a total of $395,504,444 provided $90,000,000 for continuing construction next year.

This amount, the report states, will allow the work to proceed to the coming fiscal year about as rapidly as it has been possible thus far in the current fiscal year.

The 1916 program authorized 156 ships, many of these have been completed, but 17 battleships and battle cruisers and a number of auxiliary vessels are under construction.

The bill as it reached the house today carried $37,775,129, less than the amount appropriated a year ago and $284,011,287 less than the amount requested by the navy department.

Besides the cut in the enlisted personnel from 143,000 to 100,000 heretofore announced, the committee also cut the marine from 27,400 to 20,000.

No reduction, however, will be made in the number of officers in either branch of service.

The total appropriations, 6,913,431, a reduction of $2,886,569, from estimates and $13,086,000 less than was appropriated for this year.

An appropriation of $550,000 for work on yards and stations on Atlantic and Gulf coasts, while $4,907,000 was appropriated for yards on the Pacific coast.

HOTEL BILL IS NOT DANGEROUS
IT IS CLAIMED

Measure in Which 'Joker' Was Suspected Merely Ambiguous Says Local Man

Fears of hotel men that great injury would be done through the Burkhardt house bill making some changes in the hotel laws were dissipated today by a thorough examination of the act.

"A dozen hotel men over the state have written to me about this bill," said a local hotel man. "Investigation showed that it contained only minor changes in the law. Attorneys construe the section requiring hotels to be from wall to wall, construed it to mean that hotels need not be cross-sectioned. If there is a turn in the hall it is not ended but continues. The wording is ambiguous and has caused considerable alarm among hotel men."

"It is probable that efforts will be made to clarify the wording in the senate, but no one, I think, will ask that the bill be brought back to the house. The sections in the bill that are new are important, and the section which aroused the hotel men is in the law now."

Proposed Reduction Will Cancel Ten Per Cent. Bonus Predicted

New York, Feb. 2.—Reports circulated here today that the Standard Oil company would make a 10 per cent wage reduction, affecting its employees in all parts of the United States, were given added currency by news of cuts made by Standard Oil subsidiaries in widely separated fields.

Employees of subsidiary companies in New Jersey and West Virginia considered the proposed reductions at meetings last night. Reports came from Mannington, W. Va., that employees of the Eureka-Pipe Line company, a subsidiary, had been notified of similar reduction.

The proposed reduction, it is said, will take the form of suspension of the 10 per cent wage bonus granted by the Standard Oil company during the war.

New York, Feb. 2.—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey today announced a reduction of one cent a gallon in price of 2-gallon and kerosene in five states.

New York, Feb. 2.—Employees of all the refineries of New Jersey have voluntarily accepted a reduction of one-half of cost of living bonus effective Feb. 15. It was announced today at general offices of the Standard Oil company.

J. W. Pauley and Son Caught in Raid by Welch and Martinson

FIND SMALL BREWERY

Capacity of Plant Was About Three Gallons an Hour, 100 Percent

J. W. Pauley and Pearl Pauley, father and son, waived examination after being arrested on charges of manufacturing intoxicating liquor at their residence, 1014 Eleventh street.

Sheriff Welch and Chief of Police Chris Martinson arrested the pair last night about 9 o'clock, walking into the house while the liquor was being manufactured. State's Attorney E. McCurdy was summoned and praised the officers' catch. He said the still was one of the most complete that had been obtained anywhere.

According to the officers, when they entered the house the still was turning off about three gallons an hour of almost pure alcohol. A gas stove was connected with a gas lighting plant. The fermented mixture was said to be on the stove, boiling. The steam was led into a worm consisting of 15 to 20 feet of copper wire, they said, taken through cooling water into glass jars. Rye, corn, brown sugar, molasses and yeast was used in the manufacture. The mixture which fell into the jars was said to be almost pure alcohol.

The officers confiscated four or five gallons of home brew, a half of rye mash, box of rye, barrel and samples, keg and sample green box, rye, etc.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION DEFIES HOUSE PROBING COMMITTEE AND
LEMKE HINTS OF FURTHER MOVE

Attorney-General Calls Investigation Method "Unconstitutional" and Industrial Commission Letter o Employees to Refuse to Bring Records Is Given—Adjournment Taken and Attorneys Suggest Records Be Brought in and Kept in Hands of Secretary—Claim Production of Records "Would Absolutely Stop Industry Operation"

The Industrial Commission of the state, composed of Governor Frazier, Attorney-General Lemke and Commissioner of Agriculture Haglan, today refused to permit production of records and books of the state industries through demand of the house investigating committee.

To do so "would absolutely stop the operation of said industries and destroy them," the commission declared.

The bomb-shell was exploded at the opening of the investigation of state industries begun today in the Burleigh county courthouse by the house investigating committee of mine.

Lemke Makes Appearance

Attorney-General Lemke appeared before the committee and asked that the records show that he was representing the executive department of the state, that the action of the committee in refusing to permit witnesses to be represented by counsel was unconstitutional and "not conducive to the best interests of the state" and that the investigation "was an attempt to usurp power of the executive department of the state" and that he was present to cross-examine witnesses and "to get the truth."

He also said that further steps would be taken, when informed of the rule of the committee regarding the appearance of witnesses. This was taken to mean by some that he would go to the supreme court.

Paddock Produces Order

H. A. Paddock, secretary of the Industrial Commission, in answer to a request by Attorney Francis Murphy, to produce records, presented the order of the Industrial Commission addressed to "the managers, officials and employees of the Bank of North Dakota, the North Dakota Mill and Elevator association and to the Secretary and Employees of the Industrial Commission of North Dakota."

The senate committee met at noon today to consider the audit of Bishop, Brissman and Co. and the Industrial Commission. It was decided to have Attorney General Lemke act as attorney but the minority were granted the right to an attorney if they so desired.

The hearings, it was decided, would all be held on the floor of the senate, although the preliminary discussions of the report will be done in committee meetings.

In response to further questioning Mr. Paddock said he did not think the Industrial Commission would object to his producing certain records, and the committee adjourned, after attorneys stated that a letter would be given Mr. Paddock to present to the Industrial Commission, requesting that he appear with certain records, keeping them in his custody. He also said he had been instructed to cooperate in his office if the committee desired to examine records there.

Called It "Third Degree."

The order of the Industrial Commission to employees has a preamble in which the commission attacks the nature of the investigation, assails it, saying that witnesses are not permitted to be represented by counsel, that a stenographer's record for the minority was refused and that it is in the nature of a "third degree or star chamber proceeding." "The order to employees, etc., says:

"Resolved, That you and each of you who have in your possession or under your control or in your use any books, records, documents, files, papers, instruments or property of any kind or description belonging to the industries under the control and management of the Industrial Commission of the State of North Dakota, are hereby ordered by the governor, the attorney general and the commissioner of agriculture and labor of the state of North Dakota, as members of the executive department of the state of North Dakota, and as members of the industrial commission of North Dakota, and to refrain from taking from said institutions and industries any of such said items of property and to refrain from delivering the same to the so-called investigating committee of the house of representatives of the seventeenth legislative assembly or to any of their employees, agents, attorneys or servants except upon an order of this industrial commission."

SOUTH DAKOTA
HAS STATE MINE
AT HAYNES, N. D.

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 2.—E. O. Roush, in charge of the state-owned coal mine at Haynes, N. D., who is here for a few days during the legislature, reports operations at the mine are going ahead in fine shape and is enthusiastic over the mine's future.

Commenting upon the venture, Mr. Roush said:

"The big trouble now is to get order. The people of South Dakota generally are under the impression that this mine will supply only state institutions. As a matter of fact, the state institutions made their contracts last summer and let their fuel supply before the mine was organized. Consequently we now have plenty of coal to sell to individuals. We are turning out more than one hundred tons a day, although some of the machinery is not yet installed and we are not at maximum production."

"Since this state mine has been in operation coal has been poured into the territory adjacent to the mine in the hope of undermining our business. One day recently there were 400 cars of unconsignable coal in Aberdeen."

Mr. Roush said the coal produced at the state mine showed a test of over 11,000 B. T. U. per ton. The coal can be laid down in towns of the state, he said, under the present freight rates, at the following prices, with an additional 7 per cent war tax:

Aberdeen, $4.72, Brookings, $5.91, Watertown, $5.50, Madison, $5.95, Sioux Falls, $5.93, Yankton, $6.07, Mitchell, $5.80.

Twitchell Calls
Maddock to the Speaker's Chair

Strange things happen in legislative halls.

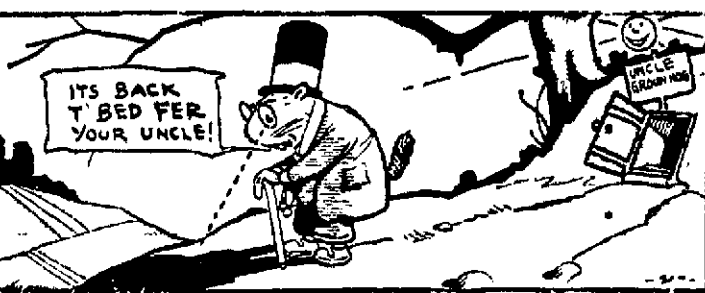

During debate on a bill involving the serving of notice of crop mortgage liens on elevators, Speaker Twitchell of the house, called Walter Maddock, N. D. Non-partisan opponent for the post, to the chair.

Independents engaged in heated debates with Independents and Non-partisans divided.

Rep. Johnson, of Steele, Non-partisan, said he agreed with Speaker Twitchell "for the first time in four years," the speaker opposing the bill.

Representative Sherman, Non-partisan, was for it.

And the final vote by which the bill was indefinitely postponed found political lines forgotten.

Weather-Man Roberts says that the ground hog came out today, saw his shadow, turned around and walked right back into his hole.

Was a Good Judge of Liquor

"Since a young man I had a liking for liquor and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time, but constant drinking gave me stomach trouble which became chronic. My stomach would have been a valuable addition to a gas factory. Doctors did not seem to relieve me. One day my druggist got me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I am now as good as now." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. From Bottineau County IN THE MATTER OF THE RECEIVERSHIP OF THE PROPERTY OF THEO. H. ZORN

Geo. P. McMillen, Receiver and Respondent, vs.
A. N. Nelson, Claimant and Appellant.
(Syllabus.)
In September, 1918, the appellant, Nelson, purchased a going retail hardware business from one Zorn. The property transferred by Zorn to Nelson in such transaction consisted of the hardware stock and fixtures, the premises where the business was being conducted, and a certain dwelling house. In consideration of the transfer to him of this property, Nelson conveyed to Zorn certain equities in Minnesota lands; paid him $491.58 in cash, and assumed and agreed to pay debts which Zorn owed to certain wholesale houses. Among the claims which Nelson assumed and agreed to pay was one in favor of Farwell, Ozmun, Kirk & Co. On September 25, 1918, Nelson settled such claim by paying Farwell, Ozmun, Kirk & Co., $408.00 in cash, and executing and delivering to it certain notes for the balance of the claim. In the transaction between Nelson and Zorn there was no attempt whatsoever to comply with the provisions of the so-called Bulk Sales Law (Section 7224, 7227, C. L. 1913.) On August 16, 1919, upon proceedings instituted by certain creditors, a receiver was appointed to take charge of the hardware stock and distribute the proceeds thereof pro rata among the creditors entitled thereto. On December 15, 1919, Farwell, Ozmun, Kirk & Co., executed a written assignment to Nelson of the claim which it had against Zorn on September 25, 1918. Nelson at no time rescinded or attempted to rescind the transaction with Zorn. On or about Dec. 29, 1919 Nelson, claiming to be the owner of such claim, presented it to the receiver for allowance. The receiver rejected it. The trial court sustained the action of the receiver. Held, that the trial court's ruling was correct.

Appeal from the District Court of Bottineau County, Burr, J.
A. N. Nelson, appeals from an order rejecting a claim presented to a receiver.

Affirmed.

BILL THROWING HARPOON INTO AGITATORS UP

Bill Is Called One for Punishment of "Criminal Syndicalism"

LEMKE MEASURE IS UP

House Memorializes Congress to Aid Farmers of Northwest to Buy Seed

The house of representatives has before it today a bill introduced by Representative Ray Johnson of Kansas, defining "criminal syndicalism" and providing penalties. It was the one hundredth bill introduced in that branch of the legislature, yesterday afternoon.

The measure defines "criminal syndicalism" as follows: "Criminal syndicalism is hereby defined as that doctrine which advocates crime, sabotage (this word as used in the bill meaning malicious damage or injury to the property of an employer or employee), violence or other unlawful methods of terrorism as a means of accomplishing industrial ends." The bill provides a maximum punishment of $500 fine and two years' imprisonment.

The bill also defines unlawful assemblage and conspiracy. The act is modeled closely after the Minnesota act, which was much used during the war in espionage cases.

Lemke Measure Up.
The house, through Representative Walter Maddock, received communications, addressed to Mr. Maddock, from the governor, railroad commission and tax commissioner relative to funds reported in their hands which are available for the use of Attorney General Lemke in fighting railroad cases. A fourth communication by Mr. Lemke was held not properly a matter for the consideration of the house, by Speaker Twitchell, because he said it criticized and questioned the motives of members and was distinctly against the house rules.

Chairman Watt of the appropriations committee declared that the messages contained information which the house appropriations committee had been unable to get. Nonpartisans took exception to this statement. Chairman Watt also claimed that Mr. Lemke was supposed to have been invited to appear before the appropriations committee by Nonpartisan member delegates to do so, but that he did not appear.

Exception also were taken to this statement. Mr. Lemke declared that the statements made by the appropriations committee in answer to his statement of the needs of his office for funds were incorrect and that some were "ridiculous."

Appeal from the ruling of the chair on Lemke's letter resulted in the chair being sustained. A call for verification showed the vote was 34 to 55.

Representative John Maddock moved to call a senate bill No. 4, containing an appropriation for Mr. Lemke, from the house appropriations committee. He said the money was greatly needed and that Mr. Lemke had asked for a postponement of the railroad rate case, set for Bismarck for February 21, to make greater preparations. The motion to call the bill from committee was lost, 53 to 76. M. O. Granger, independent, voted to call the bill out of committee.

Factory Inspector Bill.
House bill No. 84, providing for a state factory inspector, came out of committee with a divided report, the majority being in favor of postponement. Representative Boyd asked that it be referred to the state affairs committee and this action was taken.

House bill No. 42, to permit women to serve on juries, received favorable committee report. The state affairs committee presented a divided report on house bill 31, prohibiting the smoking of tobacco in dining rooms or hotel cafes and railroad dining cars, except in separate rooms. A minority report was for indefinite postponement. A majority was for amendments. The house refused to substitute the minority report.

Crop Mortgage Measure.
A bill providing that holders of crop mortgages must give elevators notice of them, otherwise relieving the elevator from being held under the mortgage liens, was indefinitely postponed.

The house received a copy of the report of the Industrial Commission on state industries.

Two resolutions were adopted. One memorialized congress to provide aid for farmers between Minnesota and the Rocky mountains in purchasing seed and feed during the coming season. Copies are to be sent to the South Dakota and Minnesota legislatures and the national congress. Another resolution asked congress to provide for the election of president and vice president by a direct vote of the people.

At the Eltinge.
Owing to the fact that a number of our patrons have asked for the standard and the better class of music, an organ concert has been arranged for the Eltinge by Harry L. Wagner on Wednesday and Thursday of each week, just after the comedy, tonight and tomorrow at 7:30.

The feature picture will be a really big photo play that makes a smashing impression. It is "The Miracle Man," a Paramount Arterit picture, produced by George Loane Tucker, which was adapted from the remarkably successful Broadway play by George M. Cohan. Thomas Meighan, Elmer Fair and Betty Compson are included in an unusual cast.

GAMBLING ORGY SWEEPS NATION

"Come 11" Is Now United States Anthem to the Tune of Two Billion Dollars.

FRENZY SEIZES THE COUNTRY

Treasury Officials Deeply Concerned Over Situation—May Make General Appeal to Public to Check Gambling.

Washington, D. C.—Approximately $2,000,000,000 changed hands last year as a result of the gambling mania, it was estimated here on the basis of information reaching government heads through official and unofficial channels.

Treasury officials are deeply concerned over the situation, which indicates, they say, that the United States is still clinging to wasteful and extravagant habits that grew up since the armistice.

The situation has been brought to the attention of Secretary of Treasury Houston. Director William Mather Lewis of the savings division now is considering whether a general appeal to the public through ministers and civic societies would be effective in checking gambling.

Frenzy Seizes Nation.
Lewis has just returned to Washington from a trip through the country in which he gave some attention to a study of the situation.

"Gambling at cards and betting on racing has reached a frenzy never before equaled," he said. "Thousands appear to be engaged in it in one form or another, either as betting commissioners or bettors."

"It is true that money changing ownership through games of chance does not represent economic waste. But seldom are winnings put to any useful economic purpose."

"The federal government, of course, is powerless to act to check the mania except through a moral appeal."

No Loss, But No Gain.
Nearly $1,000,000,000 was won at poker and other card games alone this year, it was estimated. Tax receipts on sales of playing cards now average more than $3,000,000 a year. This indicates the sale of 40,000,000 packs, which alone cost more than $15,000,000.

At every race meeting that lasts a week several million dollars change hands at the tracks, it is estimated.

This includes no estimate of the vast aggregate of sums wagered at places distant from the tracks through betting commissioners.

U. S. DOOMS BURROS AS PEST

Animals Charged With Destroying the Beauty of Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

Washington.—The lowly burro, established in western legend as the heroic prospector, has been officially classed as a "veritable pest" by the United States government.

This animal, and its progeny in countless numbers, abandoned by its former owners, according to Stephen T. Mather, director of the national park service, has selected the Grand canyon of the Colorado for its habitat and the availability of the canyon's scenic beauties in consequence are almost disappearing.

The burro, Mr. Mather says, "destroys the trails, denudes the pasture of grass and other forage so that native wild game, such as antelope, has been forced out." He adds that "the time is not far distant when radical steps will have to be taken to eliminate the burro evil."

SOLUTION FOR FUEL PROBLEM

French Scientist Urges Use of Wind and Water to Replace Coal.

Paris.—Wind and water hold the solution of the fuel shortage in France, E. Colardeau told his associates at the Academy of Sciences at its last meeting.

He presented what he considered proof in the results of an installation on his kitchen faucet of a water turbine which drives a dynamo that charges storage batteries.

City pressure on the water, he explained, is sufficient to furnish a household with electric light.

In the country, Mr. Colardeau would install windmills to pump water to elevated tanks and utilize the fall of the water through a pipe to turn the churning turbine.

New interest has been taken here in this idea of household installations because the higher costs of fuel and power it is considered, may make practicable these water turbines.

trial commission. You are further ordered to permit any persons duly authorized by a resolution duly passed in either house of the seventeenth legislative assembly, or persons duly delegated by said resolutions, carrying proper credentials showing such authorization, to examine and inspect any of the above mentioned items or property which are in your possession, under your control or in your use at any time during business hours on business days; provided, however, such inspection shall only be permitted when the managing officer of the particular industry in which you are employed is present or has authorized or delegated some other person to act in his behalf in that respect; and you are further hereby ordered not to permit any person so inspecting any of such items or property to change, alter or remove any of the same; provided further, that you are ordered and directed to do everything in your power consistent with this order and to assist and co-operate with such person in securing for them such information as they may be seeking by such examination and inspection, so that it will be possible for such committee or committees to obtain all of the real facts concerning the said industries if they so desire.

Crangaard Presides.
The committee meeting was called to order by Chairman M. O. Granger. Other members are D. E. Shipley, secretary; S. W. Johnson of Steele and Griggs counties, John Freeman, Roy Weld, Andrew Johnson of Ward county, Adam Nagel Jr., P. G. Hanson of Grand Forks and C. A. Ulland.

The first witness called was W. A. Anderson, first assistant attorney general and former secretary of the Industrial Commission. Mr. Lemke stepped before the committee at this juncture.

"Let the records show that the attorney general appears, representing the executive department of the state as attorney general," he said, and told the committee that the action in not permitting witnesses called to be represented by counsel was "unconstitutional and not conducive to the best interests of the state."

He said that "since the investigation is an attempt to usurp the power of the executive department of the state," he was present to cross-examine to get the truth.

Upon request a stenographer of the Industrial Commission was permitted to be present.

Mr. Anderson was simply asked how long he was secretary of the Industrial Commission. He replied that he became secretary on October 1, 1919, and in response to further questioning, that he came into the state at that time and had lived here since.

Mr. Lemke Speaks.
H. A. Paddock was called to the witness stand. Mr. Lemke asked that the records show that he also appeared for Mr. Paddock. Mr. Paddock said he was an attorney in Fargo prior to taking his present position and that he was general counsel for the Consumers' United Stores company. When asked to produce records, he presented the order of the Industrial Commission.

"This report intimates that if the records are produced the state industries will be compelled to suspend operation," said Mr. Murphy, asking Mr. Paddock if this were true, but Paddock declared the order left him no option and he could not say.

Mr. Murphy: "Then I understand you decline to produce any records?" Mr. Paddock: "I cannot without violating the order."

Held Frequent Meetings.
Mr. Paddock said that the Industrial Commission holds frequent meetings and that absence of records might interfere with the work because of the frequent meetings of the commission. It was not prepared to say that the production of minutes of past meetings would interfere with or cause suspension of operation of industries. He then volunteered the suggestion that he didn't believe the Industrial Commission would object to records being brought in to remain in his secretary's hands and to read by him.

Mr. Murphy said that in order that no unfairness be disclosed, he would suggest that the secretary of the commission write a letter suggesting that the records be produced merely for the purpose of inspection, to be read, made a part of the record and remain in the hands of the secretary. Mr. Paddock was up-trusted to bring

ARTESIAN WELLS PLAYING OUT LEAVE TOWNS IN PARTS OF STATE HELPLESS BEFORE FIRE

Legislature Is Asked to Take Steps to Control Wells by Strict Law

EXAMPLES ARE CITED

A heavy epidemic of disastrous fires, wiping out large business sections as well as numerous residences in towns heretofore depending on artesian wells in the southeastern part of the state, brings the citizens' attention sharply up to the fact that their supply of water has rapidly declined due to improper drillings and casing of wells and to the various

This is Sheldon's first artesian well. Though it does not look like it, the well pipe was never sealed in the water stratum so the high pressure current naturally washed out about it and the casing causing this great hole in the town. A lot of gravel, etc., were poured in and disappeared. Elmy feet of 18-inch casing also disappeared.

Sheldon's second artesian well, showing large ditch which has carried a vast wastage from the two wells to the river—the town's supply. Most wells can be cased and sealed tightly, making waste and saving impossible and making it possible to control the later flow at will of owner.

Had Her Troubles

Sheldon has had her share of troubles in seeking an artesian well. The first well proved not only a failure but its uncontrolled flood of water spread out from the town over several farms causing basis of several lawsuits. The town in turn came back on the Oakes Well Company which on failing to control its well, dug a big ditch three-fourths of a mile long out to a neighboring coulee. This stopped the flooding but did not stop the waste of the valuable water supply which Sheldon in common with other towns and six or eight hundred farmers so sorely need at this time.

The first well washed out a big cavern under the town and formed a hole some 75 feet across. Sounding from a boat in this pond reached no bottom about the point where the entire 18 inch well casing sank and disappeared. The lot and cement walks about the well were felled off to keep people and animals from danger.

A second well put down by the driller served the town after a fashion but also largely runs to waste with diminished flow. In fact the flow and pressure of all wells has so far declined that the people realize that it is but a few years until all flows will cease unless a law is quickly passed to regulate the drilling and casing so that the wells can be reduced or shut off as the farmer or town desires.

Some rock formations are rather difficult to case into when reached by the driller, but if properly sealed, there is little or no flooding and waste thereafter.

Monango is another town whose artesian well is about gone. Mr. Maggoffin of the bank states the pressure formerly threw water over his high two story store building. Now the water barely reaches the first floor faucets with no pressure left. The flow test as made by State Engineer Hard last October ran but four gallons per minute. The citizens express fear of the grave danger the town is in should a serious fire start.

Lisbon, Ellendale, Forbes, Monango, Sheldon and numerous other towns as well as thousands of farmers are thoroughly aroused over the danger and waste of water through bad drilling and casing methods of early drillers. Their town councils, as well as between 300 and 400 farmers have formally petitioned the legislature to pass a bill as House Bill No. 41 to regulate drilling and flow. The North Dakota Well Drillers in annual three day convention at Grand Forks last week unanimously passed resolutions asking for a stringent control law, believing it will save their business as well as the water supply contributed.

The expenses of the American commission during its two years' work abroad amounted to $1,631,191.09.

HOW BRITAIN HOUSES PEOPLE

Problem Being Worked Out in Village Only Five Miles From London.

PLAN FOR 800,000 HOUSES

Colossal Task Involves Expenditure of More Than $100,000,000 Every Year for a Period of More Than Sixty Years.

New York.—"It's all jolly well to look to the government to solve our particular housing problem, but at the same time public-spirited men and women, working independently, with the right ideas, can do much toward aiding the government in reducing this problem to a minimum."

That in substance is what Mrs. Henrietta Barnett had in mind when, with others interested in community welfare, she established the Hampstead Garden Suburb, five miles from London.

"Our village now is a most attractive place," said Mrs. Barnett, at the Cosmopolitan club, New York, where she is staying for a few days before returning to England. "Hampstead Garden Suburb now has a population of about 10,000. The ground was broken for it in 1907 and the present position of this pioneer experiment of town extension, in spite of suspension of building more than six years, is most satisfactory."

Many desperate home-seekers in New York no doubt would heartily endorse a similar scheme, says the writer of an article published in the Boston Globe.

Project for 800,000 Houses.

That the housing problem in England has been more serious than that in New York is indicated by the statement that England is engaged in the colossal task of building 800,000 homes for her people at the tremendous cost of more than $100,000,000 every year for a period of more than sixty years. The necessity of sheltering homeless people became so acute that the government adopted this plan. In 1927 it will be considered again by the government. If it proves practicable, it may be continued; if not, some improved scheme may be substituted for it.

Under this plan the various municipalities issue bonds to carry out their particular schemes. Houses thus built are rented at the lowest possible rate and any deficiency beyond a certain figure is guaranteed by the national government.

This plan is helping to meet the present great and urgent housing emergency of England.

After long years passed in University settlement work, with her husband, the noted Canon Barnett, clear of St. Jude's Whitechapel, for which they were the inspiration in England, Mrs. Barnett evolved her ideas for a country community in which every family could have its own bath and its own garden.

"Part of this village," Mrs. Barnett explained, "was built around an open space of eighty acres. In addition to the woods there are public gardens, playgrounds and sheltered seats which may be enjoyed by all the tenants, whatever rents they pay."

that people with different sizes of income may live on the estate. It is not a charity enterprise. It is self supporting and has made for the happiness and improved health of the families who have taken cottages at Hampstead Garden Suburb.

Health Issue Important.

"As women are the home makers and home dwellers, and as the house is the shell of the home, women should have a voice in housing plans. The Queen Anne style in the front with the Mary Ann style at the back," to quote Sir Edwin Lutyens, must not continue when it means all the beauty and comfort for the rich and ugliness and discomfort for the domestic worker."

Speaking of the health side of the housing plan known throughout Great Britain as the "model village," Mrs. Barnett told how the district medical officer weighed and measured the village children and found them taller, heavier and broader than those of the same age in the city.

"That report was most gratifying to me," Mrs. Barnett commented, "because the pale faces of the little children of the Whitechapel district with which my husband and myself were so familiar, keep haunting me and urging me on to do something of this kind."

"I believe that the solution of many of our national differences and difficulties lies in a more neighborly attitude, not separation or isolation. Architects too often study how to get as many people as possible housed in a small space. It is hoped that those concerned with town planning will consider the natural intermingling of all social classes and the communion of the handicapped with the happy."

"WILD MAN" OF SWAMPS

This is the first picture ever taken of Albert Parsons, the "wild man" of the Mississippi swamps, who, with his wife and child, fled from the jungles of the Leaf river, near Lux, Miss., because of high water. For years there have been reports of a "wild man" in the swamps. Parsons says he taught his wife in a steel trap, many years ago. She lost one eye in a fight with a wild cat. When they appeared, the child was naked and Parsons and his wife were crude, torn garments they had used for years. This picture was taken at the Ellenville (Miss.) infirmary after they had been given new clothes.

FETE FOR NAPOLEON

United States Asked to Join in Great Celebration.

Feet at Head of French Committee Arranging for Observance of Death Anniversary.

New York.—American participation in the celebration by France of the hundredth anniversary of the death of Napoleon on May 5 next, was invited here by Prof. William Mulligan Sloane of Princeton, N. J., speaking for the French committee headed by Marshal Luch. A feature of the affair whose objects, it is stated, are "to bind up the wounds of France," will be a great exhibition of Napoleonic relics at Malmesbury, France, to which collections will be loaned from all parts of the world.

Professor Sloane, who for 42 years held the chair of history at Princeton, and latterly at Columbia university, said that French statesmen, soldiers and men of law and letters as well as other professions compose the committee which is arranging the centennial.

"Making all allowance for every severe criticism of Napoleon's career," he continued, "it is still true that his work unified France, saved it from partition among its foes and in civil life prepared the foundation and structure of the society which in the World War saved France and helped to save all western civilization."

"It was by his impulse and guidance that the financial credit of France was restored, that the magistracy and administration took definite shape, that the civil code was promulgated, the Bank of France created, the University of France modeled on that of the state of New York and the council of state organized."

"He made private property safe, opened public charges, great and small, to all classes; founded schools, colleges and secondary schools, built magnificent highways, dug an elaborate system of internal waterways, improved transportation of every sort and, above all, recognized in his battles the commanding position of belles-lettres, the fine arts and natural science. The superb inheritance of order, progress and prosperity which he bequeathed made the France of 1914."

"The French committee especially desires American participation by contributions, by the loan of Napoleonic relics."

Heir So Popular Loses Job as Janitor

Mandan, Minn.—William R. Hanson, who says he is heir to a quarter of a million dollars, lost his job as janitor in a drug store because of the sudden popularity that followed announcement of his inheritance.

He said that he had determined to get away from the madding crowd by finding work as a simple jack, but had been forced to compromise by getting a job as a janitor's helper.

Since Hanson announced that he had received word that he was heir to one-seventh of the estate of James Moore of Chicago, an uncle, the telephone bell in the drug store has jangled much of the day, postmen have delivered bulky mail and callers claiming relationship have left him no time for his broom and shovel.

MAKES CLOCK IN 25 YEARS

Workman of Delaware, O., Evolves Elaborate Hand-Carved Affair From Walnut.

Delaware, O.—After 25 years of tedious labor, O. C. Cregg has completed his construction of a grandfathers clock.

The clock, on display in a local store window, is hand carved. It was made out of solid black walnut which formerly constituted part of a pulpit in the old William Street Methodist church here.

All polishing, carving and fitting was done at odd moments by Mr. Cregg.

Standing eight feet six inches high, the clock is beautifully carved on its sides and face panels. All cutting is original. No design was followed.

Mr. Cregg, although offered good money for the unique masterpiece, has offered to sell it for a relatively small sum to the William Street church. The clock is built so that it will house cathedral tubular chimes.

B. & P. W. CLUB ENTERTAIN

The Business and Professional Women were hostesses last evening at their club rooms complimenting the visiting women in Bismarck who are in town for the session.

The program was entirely on North Dakota though roll call was answered by each member naming her native state or country. The guests, too, responded in this number. The name "North Dakota," its opportunities, resources, territory, history, daughters, agriculture, business, optimism, thrift, and aims formed topics of two minute addresses by members. The assembly sang Chapman's "Out Where the West Begins," followed by pictures of North Dakota birds in their native haunts, shown by Russell Ried, an enthusiastic young naturalist of Bismarck. A description of each bird was given and its economic value touched upon. There were also a few beauty spots in the state.

Open groves near Bismarck, the Pembina river at Wahalla, etc., closing with an excellent picture of the Roosevelt cabin on the Capital grounds. The speaker stated that it was through Theodore Roosevelt, one of our greatest lovers of nature, that North Dakota has two of its most treasured natural treasures, Lake and Stump Lake reservations.

Chocolate and cakes were served at the close of the program, and the club members were given opportunity to meet the visiting women, of whom there are several in town just now.

The guests also found each other. It is planned to open the club room to the visiting women on some afternoons, when they may bring their fancy work and their children and have "get acquainted" times quite informally among themselves, since they are living in various hotels, apartments and rooms about town.

FRENCH-AMERICAN MODISTE SAYS LENGTH OF SKIRTS SHOULD SUIT TEMPERAMENT OF INDIVIDUAL WEARER, NOT FASHION

"The corset," says Madame Guilmette, "is the real foundation for the adapting of French frocks to American requirements."

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)
New York, Feb. 2.—"The gown of the ideally dressed woman," says Madame Guilmette, "is the outward and visible sign of her inward and spiritual grace."

Madame Guilmette, born in France, is now a New York dressmaker to the Very Particular Few. Her special forte is adapting Paris models to American requirements.

"The dream of most women is to possess at least one Paris gown," says Madame, "but on the American woman the real French frock too often is merely outre, bizarre, even dowdy-looking."

Why? Because an American woman is American and a French woman is French—a matter of national temperament, according to Madame.

Americans Different.
"Now, with all her charm," continued Madame, in her soft-voiced voice, "the American woman is different, so different in many ways that to gown her unmodifiedly a la Parisienne would be as great a mistake as to pose a Corinthian frieze on a Byzantine column."

"The Parisian designer creates for the chic woman, the American designer for the pretty woman; the Parisienne considers her costume assured when she is properly corseted and shod, the American when she acquires a gown beautiful in itself."

Other fundamental differences, says Guilmette, are that the American woman chooses her gown because they are fashionable; the Parisienne makes fashionable the gown she elects to wear; the American considers accessories almost apart, the Parisienne revels in accessories, regarding them as an integral part of costume.

Corset Is Foundation.
"To begin with," Madame went on to explain, "feminine Paris knows so well the art of corseting that it has recently melted much of the last of a fashionable world into thinking it was going uncorseted. As a matter of fact, even if the Parisienne should consent to submit to the last, which she would not, no French dressmaker, worthy of the name would fit her without it."

"The first step in adapting a Paris model to American requirements, then, begins with the corset. This, a simple, pliable garment, must be drawn in to hold the hips from bandage, but serve as a solid foundation. The inside belt of the frock must be aligned to the new line, the hem turned to follow it, to suit the individual. NOT to suit fashion and then the two most important points of all are to be considered, the arrangement of the outside belt or waist, and the neckline."

"In this," she goes on, "the chief difference between the Parisienne and the American woman's dress is

HEALTH OF WOMEN

How many perfectly well women do you know? It is true that in order to keep up with the march of progress the chief care of woman is often strained to its utmost, and the tax upon her physical system is in many cases greater than she can stand. "What a picture means anything in the broad land. Glance at these pictures of society at play—all taken on the same day. Every night from 10 to 11 o'clock the thermometer at the top is Miss Adelaide Stevens, daughter of S. W. Stevens of New Jersey, ice-voicing on the frozen Shawabury River, and a group of her friends on the yacht. Fair tobogganists on the slide at Newport, N. H., are shown in the center. And below, in the sea at Palm Beach, Fla., are Mr. and Mrs. Richard de Blon B. Brown, a home owner of Boston, and New York, and right, Miss Louis S. Levy, New York girl, her dog a bath.

DR. SMYTH RESIGNS AS POOR OFFICER

Dr. F. R. Smyth, city poor commissioner, resigned last night at the meeting of the city commission and the resignation was reluctantly accepted.

Miss Ruth D. Kolting, on request of Dr. Smyth, was appointed in his place. Dr. Smyth's record as commissioner has been a most excellent one and his work was highly commended by the commissioners' last night.

A letter was read from Wm. Lemke, attorney general, stating that he was short of funds and asking the cooperation of the city and the Commercial club in furnishing him a rate expert to assist in the North Dakota rate cases. The letter was referred to City Attorney O'Hare and Secretary Keniston of the Commercial club.

The commissioners spent much time discussing lower rates for public utilities and questioned City Attorney O'Hare as to what had been done. Mrs. O'Hare stated that he could do nothing at the present time in regard to reduced rates because an appeal from the railroad commission's valuation was now pending in district court and no action could be taken until that was decided.

The committee hopes to make these benefits a success and the pictures will be most carefully selected for the school children of the city. The show will start promptly at 4:15.

FAMOUS FEBRUARY BABIES
Maybe you are one of the persons who celebrate birthdays in February. If so, you already know that the shortest of months is the greatest of birthday months.
To those others, who were not fortunate enough to make their initial appearance on earth in February it may be as well to call attention to the fact that quite a few celebrated citizens first saw the light of day in that month.
For instance:
Horace Greeley, Aaron Burr, W. T. Sherman, William Henry Harrison, Samuel J. Tilden, Thomas A. Edison, Abraham Lincoln, Joseph Jefferson, George Washington, James Russell Lowell, Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.
The February born insist that the shortest month beats all other months in giving a long lead toward fame to its children.

AN ARMFUL OF SHAKESPEARE
The average man comes in contact with Shakespeare every day of his life. So thoroughly did the Bard of Avon place his mark on the English language that today, 355 years after his death, many of our cleverest epigrams, our puttest sayings and even much of our slang we owe to him.
Shakespeare is the one grand master of English and perhaps next to the Bible and possibly the dictionaries, there are more volumes of Shakespeare than of any other English writing.
But of Shakespeare as originally printed there are not enough volumes to make a fair-sized armful.
There are in existence two copies of "Hamlet," one lacking the title page, in the British museum, and the other lacking the last leaf, in this country.
Of "Venus and Adonis" there are 13 known copies of the first eight editions while of "Titus Andronicus" there is but a single copy owned by a New York book collector.
These "super rarities" are called "quarto volumes" and command prices slightly greater than the ransom which might be asked for a good, though slightly used, king.
The "folio" editions, which came later, are very rare, too, though not as rare as the quartos.

MAKE HIM AMBASSADOR!
For ambassador to England—or any other high diplomatic post—General Coxeley!
Coxeley believes in "open diplomacy" and practices it. Some of Coxeley's brand of open diplomacy would help our diplomatic service.
Coxeley was among the "best minds" who conferred with Harding shortly before the president-elect left for straw-hat land.
Other "best minds" had arrived and departed in heavy silence.
Not Coxeley!
He rushed over to his hotel and wrote a frank "piece" for the papers, telling what he said and what Warren said and all about it.
It was more news about "front porch" confabs than we have seen since Harding was elected.
Among other things, Coxeley quoted Harding as follows:
ON HOOVER—"That appointment has caused me more trouble than all the others combined. Great pressure has been brought to put him in and also not to put him in."
ON POPULAR REFERENDUM—"With my experience in legislation in Ohio and in the Senate, I am not in favor of having the people vote on amendments or laws. Where they have voted the results have not been satisfactory."
Not satisfactory to whom, Warren?

ALICE IN PRICELAND
The National Industrial Conference Board reports that in four months there has been a drop of 5.6 per cent in the average prices of a number of important food and clothing articles.
Looking back six months the average householder feels like an Alice coming out of a Wonderland of High Prices. He wonders how he got in so deep that he thought he never, never would get out.
And what a terribly thrilling, interesting time we all had in the woods, as Alice would have said. There was that ravenous old monster Greed bossing the forest and with his magic wand causing the Sugar Trees and the Shoe Trees and the Clothes Trees and the Rent Trees to grow up into the clouds, over night.
But he made them grow too high, so that folks just quit trying to reach their branches and stood at the bottom of the trees waiting for the fruit to drop. There being no profit in that sort of thing, the magical monster undertook to make the trees grow back to their old levels. He was unable to make them come down as quickly as they had gone up, but from day to day the trees are shrinking.

And yet so startling are some of the price changes that already have occurred, that any ten-year-old boy can reminisce interestingly, like an old inhabitant.
"Well," he says, with the retrospective gaze of a grandfather, "I kin remember when sugar was 30 cents a pound! And sometimes there was none to be got anywhere! And my ma used to send me around to all the groceries lookin' for some!"
At least there was always something to talk about besides the weather in those old high-price days.

WHAT, NOT EQUIPPED?
"You have no outfit, no capital to start with? You are not equipped? Why, poor that you are; you are equipped as only the God of the whole universe could afford to equip you."
It is reported James H. Foster, Cleveland millionaire, said this to a young man.
Thirteen years ago, with no capital, but with determination, Foster set out to organize a steel fabricating plant.
After a year's rebuff, he induced several business men to back his dream to the extent of $105,000.
His small plant began by making bicycle sprockets and automobile parts. The first month's turnover was $10,000.
Its annual business today is $25,000,000 and its organization includes the Cleveland Welding & Mfg. Co., the Hydraulic Steelcraft Co., and the Canton Sheet Steel Co., and Mr. Foster is only 41 years old.

Downtrodden gold miners ask $10 more an ounce for the stuff but they'll get little sympathy from the movie fans who have seen them cutting up in a western film.

THE FUTURE CITY.
This is a story twenty years before its time. It is a story built upon an idea germinating in the practical brain of Prof. P. H. Holden of the International Harvester company. If yours is an imagination as keenly alert as his you can sit with him in his office and see—
A city without chimneys.
A city without smoke and soot, a city with streets and buildings as clean as a hound's tooth.
A city without coal bins and coal yards and coal wagons and coal cars.
A city with playrooms in the basement of homes, a city where white collars put on in the morning can be worn without shame to the theatre in the evening.
A city where furnaces and boilers have gone the way the mahogany bar is now passing.
In short, a city lighted and heated by electricity generated at the coal mines and distributed to the habitations of man over high tension wires.
A visitor to Professor Holden's office had this model city spread out for his inspection simply by putting the query. "What, sir, do you believe to be the principal defects in our present system of coal distribution?"
"Of course," explained Professor Holden, "what I have in mind is Utopian, but it is that toward which we are rapidly being driven. It can be proved practicable, I think. I should think the president of the United States would start a movement to have the experiment made. Private enterprise, perhaps, could be induced to put up prizes for the first electrically operated, heated and lighted city in the country, the power to be generated by coal burned at the source of production, the mines."
"With such a system we should never lack for light and fuel because of poor transportation or railway labor trouble, or any one of the many things that now prevent distribution of coal at a reasonable price. The waste of fuel, for which we Americans are notorious, would be eliminated. In time to come we shall unquestionably look to electricity for heat and power to the exclusion of everything. It may be a number of years coming, but nothing, I believe, can prevent it."
"Eventually we shall have all water power harnessed and energy thus taken in hand will supplement power developed from burning coal at the mines. In time there will be power houses out on the lake storing power generated from the waves."
"When that time comes electricity will drive all our factories. It will heat our buildings and homes. When we wish heat, we shall press a button as we now turn on the electric light. It will not be necessary then to heat an entire building in order to get one room warm. Cities will be much cleaner and more healthful, and the people who dwell in them will be happier because they are healthier. We shall say good-by to smoke and soot with an easy conscience."—Chicago Daily News.

PEOPLE'S FORUM
ATTACKS PROGRAM.
Editor Tribune:
The report of the Honorable John H. Worst, commissioner of immigration for the state of North Dakota, shows that his department spent $126,090.40 from the 7th day of August 1919, to the 31st day of October 1920, a period of fourteen months.
Leaving fractions of dollars out of the calculation, that report shows that it has cost the taxpayers of this state $9,000 per month, $800 per day, allowing twenty-five working days in the month, $45 per hour, figuring on an eight-hour day, and 75 cents per minute for 350 working days. The net result of this expenditure of the taxpayers' money is nil.
This immigration threwn now asks for $200,000 more. Together with an unexpended balance of a former appropriation of $200,000, making a total of $273,909.60, for the coming two years campaign. This in the face of the fact that the farmers of this state are today without money, without seed, without credit, and the state is financially unable to aid them.
Why is it necessary for the immigration bureau to maintain a man in Washington, D. C., have we not two United States senators and three congressmen there to look after the interests of North Dakota? Mr. Worst report shows that the gentleman in his department is maintaining in Washington, D. C., is not devoting his entire time to the interests of the immigration bureau of the state of North Dakota but is drawing a salary from a political party, in addition to the salary paid him by the state, and what part of his time does he devote to the interests of his state, and what part to the spreading of political propaganda?
In a purported interview with the honorable commissioner of immigration, appearing in the public press of January 27th, 1921, this language occurs: "We are planning to have a representative of the department make a tour of Norway and Sweden, equipped with motion pictures and plentifully supplied with inlithos and other material which will inform the

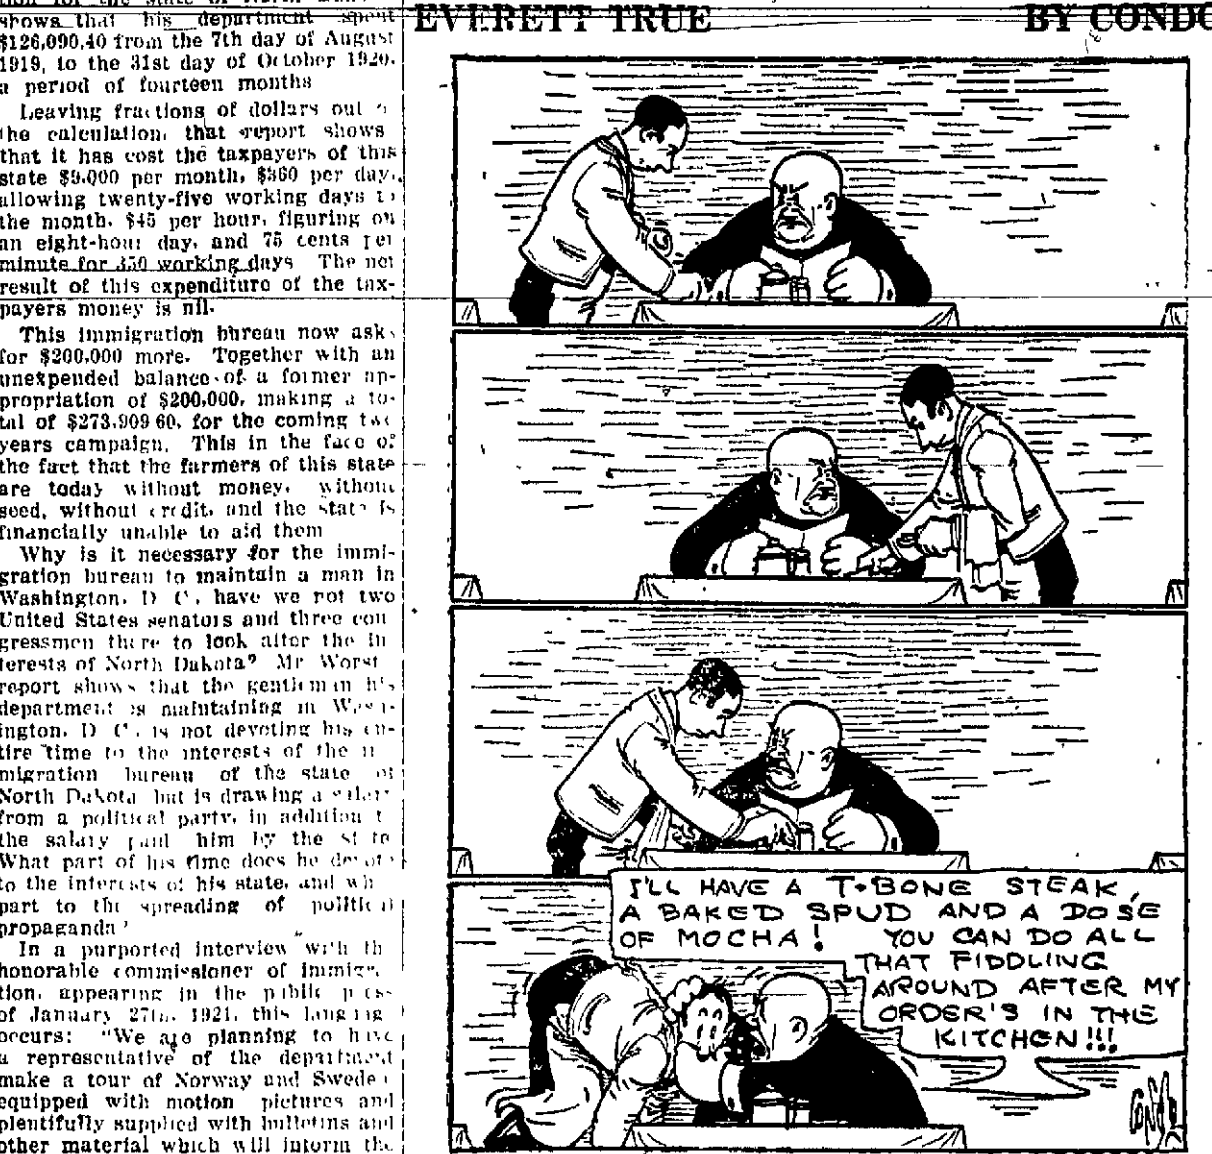

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
By Oliver Roberts Barton.

The Jinn changed his shape again this time into that of a young man, turned to Nick. "What have you in the little carved box?" he asked, although he knew perfectly well that it held the children's most precious treasures.
Nick looked down in surprise at the box he was still clutching tightly. He had forgotten that he had it. "I don't know," he said slowly. "Nancy, do you know what it is? Where did I get it?"
But Nancy was as much puzzled as her brother. "I don't remember, Nickie," she said. "Perhaps it isn't ours." Then she noticed Nick's feet and her own. "Did you give these slippers to us?" she asked, turning an eager face to the Jinn, who was enjoying the success of his last wicked act.
Without a word Nick handed it over. He had not only forgotten that it contained the previous Man, the Golden Key and the Language Charm, but he had forgotten why he had thought, Nancy, too, had never a thought of their errand.

peoples of those countries about present conditions in North Dakota.
The gentleman must certainly have been speaking facetiously, for it must be assumed that the department of immigration would not disseminate anything but the truth regarding the bank, state or national, would have closed its doors, and thrown it into the bankruptcy court, failing to pay half losses which the farmers have sustained, although they had paid for the protection of the hail insurance. I repeat that it is a crime for the state under these conditions, to spend over a quarter of a million dollars of the taxpayers money in invitations to home-seekers from other states and countries, to join us in our financial ruin and bankruptcy.

Let the state first establish itself upon a sound and sane basis financially, provide for the interests and principal of its securities as all other state and private corporations do, call off your blatant howlers against so-called big business and Wall street. Every man, whether he stands in your legislative halls, or upon the street corner mouthing about big business and Wall street, knows that what they are pleased to call big business and Wall street, are no more trying to exploit or control the government of North Dakota, than they are trying to exploit and control the plant

When you have proven that the interest and principal of every dollar invested in North Dakota securities is insured to the investor, then will your securities be gladly taken up whenever offered in any market. Until you do demonstrate by some legislation that it is the intention of the state to redeem every dollar's worth of its securities at maturity, you can not sell a dollar's worth of bonds or warrants to any sane investor.
Every man, whether he be senator or representative, who does not aid in passing legislation necessary to re-establish the state of North Dakota to the honorable position she formerly held in the sisterhood of states, will leave a heritage of shame to his children, be derelict in his duty to his constituents, and a disgrace to his state.

SELF-DETERMINATION.

"That hat is very becoming to you, sir," said the polite salesman. "Becoming?" eh? growled the irascible old gentleman. "What do you think I am—a fool or a dink? I'm a fussy woman buying a bonnet and I don't care a hoot about how a hat looks on me. All I want is something to keep the rain and sun off my bald head."

"Yes, sir," replied the clerk, meekly. "That's a serviceable hat, and if you are not a married man, you should worry about the way it looks on you."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"What on earth do you mean by his taking chances in such a sound investment?"

"Well, my father says the bigger the greatest the greater the risk."

Bank of North Dakota

The Bank of North Dakota has a total of $1,000,000 in deposits, and is the largest bank in the state. It is the only bank in the state that is not a member of the Federal Reserve System. The bank is owned by the people of North Dakota, and is controlled by a board of directors elected by the people. The bank's capital is $1,000,000, and its assets are $1,000,000. The bank's liabilities are $1,000,000. The bank's net profit is $1,000,000.

Liabilities total the same amount and include: Individual deposits, $19,435.91; due to depository banks, $594,019.17; due to city treasurers, $228,169.47; county treasurers, $3,612,642.23; due to townships, $513,562.82; school treasurers, $964,887.70; state of North Dakota, $3,280,402.39; Drake mill, $18,699.00; and state institutions, $128,479.75, showing $9,759,654.43.

Slinking fund on public deposits are shown as $3,192,398.03, with time certificates amounting to $186,729.84.

Farm Loans of Banks. Defending the comparatively small amount of farm loans the report on the Bank of North Dakota, which differs from an audit of a firm of accountants in that it discussed the various phases of the bank's business in the tone that is customary in administration circles, it is said that the total amount of loans amount to only 61 percent of the legal limit, and says a conservative policy has been followed, and that farm loans on Oct. 15 amounted to 75 percent of the legal limit.

The initiated law passed Nov. 3 is criticised severely, and it is attacked as having been supported by the bankers in the state.

In explanation of the item of farm loan deposits of $214,000, it is stated that it is customary to make deposits during the winter months, and the only discrepancy on books reported is a shortage of 54 cents in cash.

Regarding money tied up in closed banks and long-time loans it is claimed that the statement of Dec. 29, 1920, showed 48.9-10 percent as much liquid assets as demand liabilities in banks generally and that the percentage as to the Bank of North Dakota is 72.1-10, it being held that the bank is in a strong position as having this high percentage of liquid assets.

The report says the profit for 18 months is $175,998.50.

Salary List Shown. Salaries aggregated $107,397.20 in the year 1920, making a total salary expense of $190,130.00.

Among those listed on the pay roll are W. A. Anderson, former secretary of the Industrial Commission, as attorney for the bank at a $1,400 annual salary, this being in addition to the Industrial Commission secretaryship salary. Prof. W. G. Roylance, statistician and publicity man, receives $3,000 a year. The name of Spurgeon Odell, who was bitterly attacked during the campaign and who figured in the Langer-Scandinavian-American bank case, is listed as a special representative at $100. He tried to sell state

Home Builders

The Home Building association report is very brief, and is made as of Dec. 31, 1920. The assets total $418,630.14, according to the report, which include: Home buyers loans of $18,247.65; traveling expenses advanced equipment, a deferred expense of $15,000, being amount said to be expended in organization work prior to starting operations, and later, an inventory of materials on hand amounting to $90,738.59 and real estate of value of $2,000.

The report says: "This exhibit represents the general fund of the Mill and Elevator association and is the control account of the Drake mill, the Grand Forks terminal and the Fargo office of the Mill and Elevator association."

The exhibit is self-explanatory, with the exception perhaps of the item of traveling expense $907.00, Bookkeeper's salary $1,425.00, manager's salary, $5,000, and secretary's salary, $721.55. The manager was J. A. Metcalf of Fargo, N. D. The secretary during the period he was retained was Mr. A. W. Luehrs and the bookkeeper was Mrs. S. Dodd. The item of traveling expense constitutes the expenditures made in transportation by Mr. McCann.

"The only other item which is not self-explanatory is the item of bank overdraft $203,190.91, and the item of $130,608.14 overdraft shown by Bank of North Dakota. In other words the overdrafts shown by the Bank of North Dakota, plus the outstanding checks which have not been presented for payment, equals the overdraft shown by the general fund of the mill and elevator association."

Transfers of Funds

The explanation continues "You will find in the assets of the Bank of North Dakota, mill and elevator association overdraft $130,608.14. Under the law the Industrial Commission and the Bank of North Dakota are authorized to transfer funds to the state industries to be repaid to the Bank by such industries. In order that the commission might at all times know the amounts which were being expended in construction on the Grand Forks project it was deemed advisable to carry the checks drawn by the Grand Forks, Fargo and Drake businesses as overdrafts and to have the Industrial Commission thereby kept informed as to the amounts being invested at Grand Forks. Then at the end of different periods the commission would authorize transfers and the execution of notes therefor. Since December 31 the commission has authorized a transfer to the mill and elevator association and such transfer has been made and note executed to the Bank of North Dakota for the sum of $200,000.00 to take care of the overdrafts shown in this exhibit."

In a foot note in connection with this audit company says: "It is properly an item of deferred expense representing the cost of establishment of the business (mill and elevator association) and in the accounting of private business would be carried as a deferred asset to be absorbed over a period of years by the operation of the business."

$18,370.41 IN SALARIES.

In connection with the income and profit and loss account the league auditing company lists the expenses for the year ending Dec. 31, 1920, as $14,137.69. This includes salaries, wages and extra expenses, $18,370.34, and various other items under the heading of advertising, depreciation, drainage, water, coal, etc.

The item of supplies is given as $2,325.02 and is explained in a paragraph attached which reads: "In the above, supplies are charged the auditors' time and expenses incident thereto together with the cost of a large amount of supplies covering the cost of a complete accounting system installed Nov. 13, 1920."

In direct contrast to the audit report of Bishop, Brissman and company, the report blames the removal of government control of wheat prices for losses after July 15, which was responsible for "a complete collapse of the market."

The report then declares that during 1920 the Drake mill manufactured approximately 500 barrels of clear flour per month but there was "little or no demand for clear flour during the market collapse." Hedging with options on wheat was insufficient protection since the price of clear flour fell more heavily than the price of wheat. Clear flour represents about 20 percent of the output of the Drake mill, so the losses resulting from the above conditions affected about 20 percent of the total flour production.

"Between July 15, 1920, and Sept. 18, 1920, no options were sold to cover wheat and flour on hand and on consignment, resulting in a loss due to the fall in the price of wheat. (The claim is made that the mill paid 9 to 12 cents above market price for wheat.)"

"The report further claims another contributing factor the small manufacturing profit of the mill was the rapid decline in cotton and cotton goods. It gives the purchase of sacks during the month of November, Dec. 31, 1919, as over $17,000, and says "when the bottom fell out in the cotton market the price of sacks collapsed" and a 40 percent loss was sustained.

NOT GOOD OUTLOOK. The report does not present an encouraging outlook for the small Drake mill saying: "It is a well known fact among all persons versed in the milling trade that the manufacturing expenses are extremely high in a small mill" and that "the most important contributing factor to the small manufacturing profit is the small size of the experimental mill."

CARL TREMAINE
Give 'em all you have!
That's the way Carl Tremaine of Cleveland fights.

Tremaine is being groomed by his manager, Jimmy Dunn, for a whack at Joe Lynch, bantam champ. He may not win the title, but he'll put more color into one fight than most fighters put in a dozen. Color's the kid's name.

Dunn, who tutored Johnny Kilbane into a title, has taught Tremaine the same bag of tricks.

Hits to Win.
"What's the use of wearing boxing gloves if you don't fight when you get in the ring," says Tremaine.

"Every time you win you go that much nearer to the top."

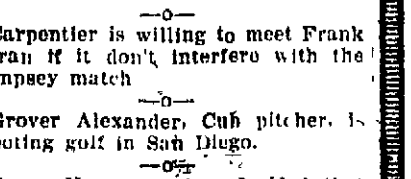

In his recent bouts with Joe Burman at Matt Hinkel's club in Cleveland Tremaine showed so much of the "tiger" spirit that the referee had to call him down.

The Marquis of Queensbury rules were forgotten.

Fan Pleaser
But the fans liked it. Both bouts were good draws with a shade going to Tremaine the first time and to Burman the last.

"I'm going to keep on giving 'em all I can," says the Clevelander.

"There's no use in half doing anything."
